DIY Cancer Repair Manual is the name of our Facebook group...

My name is Sari Grove

My main website is at <http://www.grovecanada.ca> but if you happen to Google my name, you will find several previous websites which got filled up quickly with my research notes...I tend to move on to a brand new site or blog when I feel something is just getting too full...(or I need to upgrade to something that loads faster or is more responsive)...

Please feel free to write to me directly at grove@sent.com especially if you need help with editing your pictures or interpreting what you see...

The DIY "Thermogram" helped me tremendously to track what was happening daily as I tried new alternative things to get rid of a breast lump...

I know how important it is to see if something is working or not...Don't be shy to write or send me pictures if you need help...Every time I help someone, I end up learning something new myself...

So glad you are here,

Hugs,
